

LECTURE 11:

BUSINESS ETHICS IN PRACTICE

This lecture focused on business ethics and how ethical behaviour is applied in real workplace situations.

I learned that business ethics means following honest, fair, responsible, and professional behaviour when making decisions in an organisation.

Business ethics is important because it helps build trust between employees, managers, customers, and the organisation.

As a Software Engineering student, this lesson is useful because in the future I may work with company information, customer data, software systems, and team responsibilities.

BUSINESS ETHICS IN PRACTICE

From this lecture, I learned that ethics should not only be understood as theory. It should be applied in real workplace situations.

KEY ETHICAL VALUES I LEARNED

1. • Integrity
2. • Honesty
3. • Responsibility
4. • Confidentiality
5. • Respect
6. • Fairness
7. • Professional behaviour
8. • Accountability
9. • Trust
10. • Good decision-making
